

“I took my best work,
the select of the selects,
and entrusted it to Fujifilm HD videotape.”

Director and cinematographer Al Giddings has shot thousands of hours of footage during his Emmy winning career and now he has taken the best of his work, 10,000 shots in analog, digital and film creating a remarkable new HD library. Al Giddings Images offers one of the widest varieties of ultra-high quality HD imagery available. He could have used any brand of videocassette, but he chose Fujifilm. “The color and resolution of the upconverted HD images is stunning, better than I ever thought possible. And it’s all stored on Fujifilm videotape.”
