SHIRA AVNI

"Working as an animator and co-producer with the NFB gives me the opportunity to create innovative socially conscious media that would not be possible in the commercial world. It also gives me the opportunity to work with children through the NFB's animation workshops. Kids are natural artists and the transformation they go through when they're animating is so inspiring. Introducing young people to the arts is very important to me and I believe activities like animation workshops are a big part of what makes the National Film Board such a unique place."

Shira Avni

THE FACE OF TODAY'S NATIONAL FILM BOARD OF CANADA

Shira Avni's animated short John and Michael pays homage to two men with Down's syndrome who share an intimate and profoundly moving relationship. As Canada's public producer and distributor, the NFB is proud to have worked with Shira on this outstanding film, which challenges society's traditional ideas about disability, love and humanity.
