Sheridan Creates Excitement. Experience Animation & Digital Media.

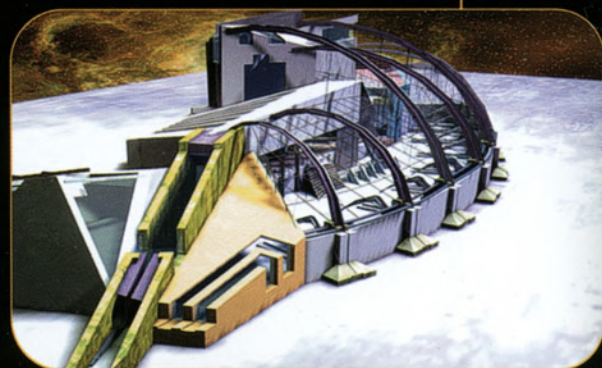

Dubbed "the Harvard of animation schools" by Wired magazine, Sheridan is a leading trainer in the fields of animation, interactive multimedia and new media design. Graduates of our internationally renowned computer and classical animation programs include Academy Award nominees Steve Williams (The Mask, Jurassic Park, Spawn) and James Straus (Dragonheart, Forrest Gump) among many talented others.

Located just 30 minutes from downtown Toronto, Sheridan is a hothouse of animation and digital media education, applied research and software development activities.

The Sheridan Centre for Animation and Emerging Technologies (SCAET), opening in September 2000, is a model for digital media training for the coming century. An enhanced teaching and applied research facility, SCAET offers students access to the latest in hardware and software, while offering vendors and providers first-rate research and testing facilities. Undertaken in partnership with the Ontario government, and industry leaders such as Silicon Graphics, Alias/Wavefront and IBM Canada, SCAET will serve as a centre of excellence in the field of digital media.

Having vigorously pursued strategic alliances with a broad range of industry partners, Sheridan is well positioned to provide graduates of its digital media programs with the skills and experiences demanded by the opportunities of the new millennium.

Internationally recognized excellence in training and research, conducted by experienced and professional faculty who provide superb leadership and innovative instruction; excellent programs which maximize student creativity and talent, made possible by effective, strategic alliances with leading public and private sector partners. Experience animation and digital media at Sheridan today!
